Kitchen Quest!

Start off the New Year with a few new kitchen skills and a lot of fun. Join us at Flying Squirrel Bakery Café for one or all four cooking classes that will be offered at the café this winter and spring. You will be invited into the kitchen for demonstrations and hands-on participation and, of course, tasting of the results! We will provide recipes and handouts to take home and there will be plenty of opportunities for questions. Coffee and tea will also be included.

Class Time: Last Sunday of each month, 2-4pm

Cost: $15 per class - Any three classes for $40 - All four classes for $50

Class size: minimum 4, maximum 10 (adults & teens)

Preregistration is required. Call or stop by Flying Squirrel to sign up!

January 31 - Whole Grains 101

Does wild rice need to cook as long as regular rice? Can I use whole wheat flour in my cookie recipe? What is quinoa, anyway? Learn why everyone's talking about whole grains and how you can easily integrate whole grain cooking into your meals, making them both better for you and delicious.

February 28 - Basic Basics

How long do I cook eggs? Why does my rice come out so mushy? All that chopping is such a pain! We will cover the most basic cooking tools and techniques and make a simple breakfast, dinner and dessert to get even the most novice cook started. Perfect for bachelor-types, young folks headed out on their own, and anyone who needs help in the kitchen.

March 28 - Sauce It Up

Time to get the lumps out of your gravy. Homemade gorgonzola mushroom mac and cheese – no problem. Want to spice up the old standards? Want to know how fancy restaurants make those creative and artful dessert sauces? Throw out that 5 year old store-bought chocolate sauce on the door of your fridge! This class is for you!

April 25 - Luscious Leftovers

Finally, you don't have to compost your stale bread. There are many great ways to use that little bit of rice or potatoes from dinner two nights ago. Get creative with leftovers and learn to make delicious herb crustinis, salad croutons, apple bread pudding, potato waffles, and more.
